[XIXth Year.] THURSDAY, September 15, 1763. [N°. 958.]

Mr. GREEN,

I HAVE of late accidentally fallen into several Companies, where the Subject of a Paper Currency has been warmly Debated, and have been Witneſs to the different Opinions which prevail in regard to the Neceſſity of a new Emiſſion in this Province. As it is an Affair of the utmoſt Importance to the general Welfare of the Inhabitants, and highly worthy of the moſt ſerious Attention, I have taken the Freedom of ſubmitting, through the Channel of your Paper, the few following Queries to the Conſideration of your Readers; in which, as I am far from pretending to much acquaintance with the Subject, if I ſhould unfortunately differ in Opinion with any Gentleman of ſuperior Knowledge, I ſhall, upon conviction of my Error, very readily retract what I may ſeem to have in Effect advanced, being ſtayed by no other Motives, than the Love of Truth, and a ſincere Regard for the Welfare and Proſperity of the Province.

Query 1ſt. Is it not a Maxim adopted by the moſt judicious of our Commercial Writers, that the courſe of Exchange is the moſt general and ſtanding Rule, whereby to diſtinguiſh whether the Balance of Trade be for, or againſt, a Country?

2d. If the Exchange be above the Par, or intrinſic Value of the Money of a Country we Trade with, is it not a plain Argument that the Balance of Trade is on their Side, and that if we cannot remit them by Bills of Exchange on ſome other Place where the Balance is in our Favor, that it muſt be remitted them in Bullion, or Specie; as on the contrary, where the Balance of Trade with a Country is in our Favor, that no Man will export Gold or Silver thither, as the Exchange will be a more favourable Remittance than the Coin?

3d. Theſe Principles being once admitted, Will it not follow, that the large Exportations of Gold and Silver which of late Years have been made from this Province to London, and which, from the preſent Scarcity of Bills of Exchange are likely ſtill to continue, demonſtratively prove, that the Balance of Trade with our Mother Country, not only has been, but is at preſent, greatly againſt us; and that we Import more of her Manufactures and other Merchandize, than what the Produce of our Commodities ſent there is ſufficient to pay for?

4th. As this Balance againſt us is not likely in future to ſuffer any Diminution, Muſt not ſo continual a Drain of our Specie, ſuppoſing the Quantity of Gold and Silver amongſt us even Ten Times the Sum it really is, without adequate Supplies from other Branches of our Commerce, occaſion ſoon ſuch a general Scarcity, as to leave us without a Sufficiency for the Exigencies of Trade, and the common Buſineſs of the Country? From what other Branches then ſhall We draw Gold and Silver enough to replace what we thus Export? Will any one undertake to prove from Facts, that our Trades to the Weſt-Indies, New-York, Pennſylvania, or any other Places, are ſufficient to anſwer this Purpoſe? If then we are to have no future Emiſſion of Paper Currency, muſt not this Province either ſuffer almoſt a total Stagnation in her Commerce for want of a circulating Medium, or be obliged to increaſe her Debt to the Merchants in Great-Britain, by drawing Bills on them to our Neighbours the Pennſylvanians, in Exchange for Their Money; and could even this Method be long continued (which would not be the caſe) muſt it not in the End bring her to a State of National Bankruptcy?

5th. But admitting, for Argument's Sake, that we ſhould ſtill have Credit in England whereon to draw Bills for ſuch Paper Currency as we might be under the Neceſſity of taking from our Neighbours abovementioned, will any thinking Man ſeriouſly recommend ſo impolitic a Meaſure? Did not the Want of a ſufficient quantity of our own Currency for the Commerce of the Province in the Year 1759, neceſſitate the drawing down upon us an Imitation of their Money at an Exchange of 40 and 50 per Cent. and has not great Part thereof been returned to them at 70 and 72½, by which has not this Province ſuffered a clear Loſs of 20l. Currency, for every 100l. Bill negociated, as aforeſaid, with them, and in the whole to the amount of many Thouſand Pounds? Should the Want therefore of a Paper Currency of our own be ſuffered ſtill to exiſt, ſo as to put us under the like Neceſſity of making uſe of their Money as a future Medium of Commerce, may it not happen, after we have again bought up large Quantities at an Exchange of 72½ to 75, that particular Circumſtances in that Province may ſo govern, as to require new and greater Emiſſions, ſo as to raiſe their Exchange to 100, or even 150, at which laſt Rates too would not their Money in all probability be return'd to them? Muſt not then the Price of Gold and Silver riſe with them in proportion? What Security have we that ſuch an Event would not happen? But ſhould there exiſt only a Poſſibility of it's happening, ought we not in Prudence ſtrictly to guard againſt every Meaſure which may, in it's Conſequences, be productive of ſo much Evil to the Province? Would it not be rendering the Welfare of the Province extremely precarious by ſuffering it to depend ſo much on the Conduct of our wiſe and politic Neighbours, and putting it in their Power to exact a moſt exorbitant Tribute from us whenever they ſhould think fit; Or, is it moreover conſiſtent with ſound Policy, thus to ſupport the Wealth and Credit of a Rival Province in Commerce, when it's Inhabitants, from their great Skill and Dexterity in the Management of their Trade and Money, can ſo eaſily turn them to their own Intereſt, and our Ruin?

6th. In ſuch a Scarcity of Gold and Silver as may very juſtly be apprehended from the general Balance of Trade continuing greatly to our Diſadvantage, are not the Difficulties which may ariſe in Paying the Clergy, Officers, and Public Dues, agreeable to the Inſpection Law, deſerving of Conſideration, as Pennſylvania Money will not be taken in ſuch Payments?

7th. Is not the Want of Gold and Silver amongſt us, even at this Time, an Evil univerſally felt and complained of, and have not ſeveral Gentlemen remarkable for Lending out large Sums at Intereſt, been heard to declare the Demands for Specie were ſo great that they could not by any means ſupply them? Has not moreover the Want of ſmall Money for Exchange in the general courſe of Buſineſs, even when we had much greater Quantities of Gold and Silver than are at preſent amongſt us, been attended with the greateſt Inconveniencies to the People? If therefore it is good Policy in every Government, to render the Circulation of Property as eaſy and convenient as may be, by taking every prudent Step for that Purpoſe, Will it not be thought neceſſary, that a Propoſal for the Subſtitution of ſome other Mode for remedying the latter Evil, even ſuppoſing that of the former unneceſſary, ſhould be laid before the Public for their Approbation, by ſuch Gentlemen who are of Opinion the Province will be in no Want of a future Emiſſion of Paper Currency?

8th. Upon the Whole, if the Maxim is well founded, that Gold and Silver cannot long remain in any Country where the general Balance of Trade is to her Diſadvantage, Ought it not fully and ſatisfactorily to appear to the Legiſlature of this Province, that the general Balance of Trade is in our Favor, before ſo Dangerous an Experiment is adopted, as the leaving the Province without a proper Medium to ſupport her Commerce, and to carry on the other neceſſary Buſineſs of the Country?

I am, SIR,
Your humble Servant,
PHILALETHES.

NEW-YORK, September 5.

A Letter from DETROIT, Auguſt 8, 1763.

THE 25th of July, we landed at Sanduſky (where the Fort formerly ſtood) about Break of Day; and immediately marched 8 Serjeants, and 160 Men, with 5 Subalterns, for an Indian Town, that lay about 6 Miles off from the Lake; Capt. Dalzell, and myſelf, was in this Detachment; I commanded an advanced Guard of Light Infantry, leaving Capt. Grant, of the 80th, to Cover our Boats and Retreat. We came to the Town about 8 o'Clock in the Morning, and directly ſurrounded it, but could find none of the Enemy there; all that we could do was to burn their Huts, which were made of Bark and bring off ſome Peltry that the Enemy had hid there; we likewiſe cut up ſome Corn, but it is of ſo ſmall Value, that it is hardly worth mentioning. We returned to our Boats about 6 o'Clock the ſame Day; and that Night rowed about 5 Miles to an Iſland, and there encamped. The 27th, in the Morning the Wind blew fair at South to carry us across by the Iſlands to the Mouth of the River Detroit; and, with a fair Wind, and good Oars, we came to it at 3 o'Clock in the Afternoon, having Diſtance from Sanduſky about 90 Miles. When we came there, I put into Leeward of a ſmall Iſland, and waited for the Rear; the whole arrived very ſoon. Capt. Dalzell ordered us to proceed; we got undiſcovered to the Norwegan Village, where the Savages lived on both Sides of us, juſt at the Dawn of Day; but we kept the Center of the River, which is about 600 Yards across. The Indians ſaluted us with ſeveral Guns, but killed none; we arrived at the Fort about Sun-riſe the Morning of the 28th.

In the Morning of the 30th, a Detachment was ordered to march under the Command of Capt. Dalzell, of 240 Men, with Gray of the 55th, Major Rogers, Capt. Grant of the 80th, Lieuts. Brown, Locke, and Marthlow of the 55th, with Lieuts. Bala and Cuyler of the Queen's Rangers, Lieut. M'Dougall, and Enſigns Pauly and Anderſon, of the Royal-Americans, Enſigns Anderſon and Fiſher, with Lieut. Gatchel, of the 55th, with a proper Proportion of Serjeants, Corporals and Drummers, and 2 Volunteers from the Traders, with Monſ. Pabet and Martine, on whoſe Intelligence we depended. We marched up the River Side, along the Road that led to the Indian Encampment, having on our left Fields of Wheat, and Orchards, and on our Right a ſandy Beach to the Water Side, with no other Cover to the Detachment than two Battoes, with Swivels in their Bows. In this Manner we marched about a Mile two Deep, with an advanced Guard of 25 Men, under the Command of Lieut. Brown, about 20 Yards a-head. We continued our March with fixed Bayonets; the advanced Guard got about the Center of a Bridge we had to croſs, and the Main Body juſt entering of it, we received a Fire from the Houſes (of which there were many there) and Hedges in Front, which killed and wounded the greateſt Part of the advanced Guard; the Fire we returned in Platoons, and ſoon after received a Fire from our left Flank; but we marched over the Bridge, and beat the Enemy from the Hedges, &c. by the Aſſiſtance of the Boats aforementioned, where we halted the Detachment for ſome Time, to get the Dead and Wounded on board the Boats, the Indians in the mean Time got between us and the Fort; in this Situation the Detachment was ordered to face to the Right about, and fall in two deep, and retreat ſlowly, Capt. Dalzell in the Rear with the Light Infantry; in this Manner we retreated, followed by a heavy Fire from the Hedges, Orchards, Houſes, &c. keeping cloſe to the Fences that divided the Inhabitants Fields from the Road, and once in a while beat out a Party to beat them back a little; when we had marched Half a Mile, the Enemy came cloſe upon our Right, and attacked us with a heavy Fire; upon which, Capt. Gray was ordered out with his Company, to beat them back, and myſelf ordered with another Detachment, to take Poſſeſſion of a Houſe the Enemy had got into, oppoſite the Center of the Detachment. I took Poſſeſſion of the Houſe, with ſome Loſs, and Capt. Gray drove the Enemy back from the Fence, but with Loſs, himſelf being wounded. About this Time Capt. Dalzell was killed, and Lieut. Brown wounded; Capt. Gray was brought to the Houſe, and the Rear came up; the Boats fired with their Round and Grape Shot, which by the Help of our Muſquetry from the Houſe, drove the Enemy to ſome Diſtance, and gave me an Opportunity to put Capt. Gray, Lieut. Brown, and ſeveral other wounded Men, on board the Boats; which Delay cauſed the Front and Rear to be divided, by Reaſon of the Front's marching forward, on which I ſent a Meſſenger to Capt. Grant, to deſire him to halt for the Front (as I was then the Commanding Officer of the Party) and marched up with the Rear, followed cloſely by the Savages, which continued coming cloſer and cloſer, in ſo much that I was obliged to take Poſſeſſion of another Houſe, which I did with Lieut. Marthlow, and Enſign Anderſon, and about 30 Men, which was the only Way I could think of to ſecure the Retreat.

I went forward to acquaint Capt. Grant, what he might ſecure the Retreat in the ſame Manner, or as he thought beſt; which he did, by taking Poſſeſſion of the Houſes; alſo at this Houſe the whole of the Enemy fell upon me, thinking to force the Houſe, the Boats having gone down to the Fort with the Wounded, and to return directly with a freſh Supply of Men and Ammunition. Here I ſtood them about two Hours, with only the Loſs of two Men; they were in Number 400 at leaſt, and they kept up a very brisk Fire through the Windows of the Houſe, which were very large; but I fortified them with Beaver Skins, as there were many in the Houſe, as alſo the Chamber, beating the Boards off the Roof, and making a Breaſt-Work with them and Skins. About 8 o'Clock the two Row-Boats came up, one with a 3 Pounder in her Bow; he immediately threw in a Shower of Round and Grape to the Right and Left of the Houſe, to a Barn and ſome Outhouſes which were there, and drove the Enemy back, with the Help of our Small-arms. This gave us an Opportunity of making our Retreat to the Fort, where we arrived at Half paſt 8. Capt. Dalzell and Serjeant, one Corporal, and 19 Men, of this Detachment were killed; Capt. Gray ſhot through the Body and both Arms, Lieut. Brown through the Thighs, Lieut. Locke in the Leg, and 48 Men wounded, the above we have had ſeveral Skirmiſhes, but none [illegible] Conſequence, having only Mrs. Gibſon killed or wounded.

Pontiac, who is the Indian Chief, and quite black'd over from the Rising of the Sun to the Setting, is encamped 4 Miles above the Fort, where he is well entrenched, and declares he will never leave that Ground till he has got Possession of the Fort."

Another Letter from Detroit, dated August 2, 1763.

SINCE my last, from Presque-Isle, I can with more Certainty inform you of the Block-house having been burnt by the Indians; and not only finding the Steps they had made to approach it, and set it on Fire with Torches and Fire Arrows, but we found going along several of their Camps, where they had trimmed and cut our Soldiers Hair, Mr. Chiffin, who commanded at Presque-Isle, is now here; as likewise Mr. Pauly, of Sandusky; Mr. Sinclar, of St. Joseph's, and his Garrison.

The 26th we arrived at Sandusky, and the 27th, early in the Morning, we went to attack a little Village, about 4 Miles from the Place, where our Block-house used to stand, on the Road to Fort-Pitt; but finding the Indians had left it some Time before, we burnt and destroyed their Huts or Log-houses, ten in Number, and their Corn Fields, found a few Packs of Beaver and Raccoons, to the Value of about 40 Pounds, York Currency, which we carried off, for the Benefit of the Soldiers; as likewise some Bear's Oil, and Indian Corn.

The 28th we came to the River at Detroit, and proceeded up the same in the Night; and a little past the first Inhabitants upon the West Shore, we were fired at by some Indians, in coming by a thick Fog too near the Shore: We fired at them with 4 Swivels till Daylight; and then proceeded in the Middle of the River, they firing from both Sides till near the Fort; we had 30 Privates and 1 Gunner wounded, 2 of them died since, and six more hurt, but get soon better.

The 31st Capt. Dalzell went with a Party of about 250 Men, in hopes to surprize a Party of Indians, who were encamped about 3 Miles up the West Side of the River, wherefore we left the Fort about 2 o'Clock in the Morning, so as to be in their Camp about Day-break; two Boats, in each of them were a Patteroon fixed, the Size of Three Pounders, were to cover our Front and Rear; but the Party marching too fast, without waiting for the intended Use of the Boats, found themselves fired upon by (as the Canadians say) about 500 Indians, about a Mile and a Half from the Fort, behind a sort of Lines they had made of Cord Wood, belonging to the Inhabitants; not expecting the Enemy so near, and being dark, made our Soldiers confider a little, but being encouraged by Capt. Dalzell, who then got a Wound in his Thigh, after a second Discharge of the Enemy, pushed over a Bridge, upon the other Side of which the Enemy lay, and drove them from their Post; but being dark, Capt. Dalzell halted a little for to see Day Light, and after sending off one of the arm'd Boats with the Dead and Wounded, I am told, ordered to retreat; being foggy the Indians had a great Advantage, in going towards our Rear, and other Posts, or Some Piles of Wood, our People were obliged to drive them from. Capt. Dalzell at this Time received another Wound, and a little after another, it is said through his Body, made him fall, and was left with seven more Soldiers in the Field; at the same Time, Capt. Gray of the 55th, was wounded through his Arm and Belly, Lieut. Brown through his right Thigh, and Lieut. Luke through his left Calf of the Leg. The Inclosed is a List of the Party, when they went out, and likewise the Killed and Wounded.

We are unlucky in our Parties being always discovered, and the Enemy knowing every Thing we are doing in the Fort.

We have twice since endeavoured to ambush them, but miscarried as yet, though all possible Precautions was taken in going out, and in ordering the Parties, without the Knowledge of the Inhabitants.

The Savages, who, since this Affair, have been reinforced, continue in their former Encampment; but can make no Impreffion on the Fort, as the Garrison have ample Supplies of all Kinds.

Great Part of the Reinforcements that are ordered to the Detroit, must be well advanced by this Time; and, we trust, we shall soon have the Pleasure of giving the Public an Account not only of their Arrival, but of their Success in clearing the Country of the Barbarians, as well as punishing them so severely, that they shall never dare to attack any of our Settlements hereafter.

Yesterday the Marlborough Transport, with a Number of Officers, belonging to the different Regiments now in America, sailed for London.

Saturday last the Sloop Cornwallis, Capt. Ramsay, arrived here in 13 Days from Halifax: He says the Indians are very peaceable in that Quarter; and that the Reports we lately had from thence of their beginning to be troublesome, was no more than a Quarrel that happened between an Inhabitant of the Township of Cornwallis, and two or three Indians that had shot a Goose belonging to the former; and he for Satisfaction killed one of their Dogs. But the Matter was soon amicably adjusted.

PHILADELPHIA, September 8.

Extract of a Letter from Fort Cumberland, dated August 29.

"I now transmit you an Account of one third material Occurrences with the Enemy since my last, in which I mentioned an Attack the Indians made on one Kuykendall's Fort, on the South Branch of Potowmack, from which they were beat off. They then immediately divided themselves into three Parties; one of which, a few Days after, killed three Persons, and took two others Prisoners on the Waters of Cape Capnak; an Account of which came before a Court Cape Capnak; an Account of which came before a Court Martial, which sat at Winchester, was travelling to this Place from the South Branch; upon which he sent his Pri-

[illegible] to attack the Traders at the Ridge, parted from them about 60 Miles, overtook them, killed and scalped four Men, took five Prisoners, one of which wounded, and got eleven Horses, and considerable other Plunder; all which he brought to this Place. Two Days after Capt. Crawford's Return, there was Advice brought of eleven Persons being in the Parts, when one Capt. M'Cullough, then here, with about 30 Volunteers, went out on a Scout, to the fourth Crossings of Youghiogheny, where they fell in with three Indians, whom they fired upon, killed one, and retreated a Justice of Peace they had made Prisoner, and got several Horses, and other Plunder. These were two of the Parties into which the Enemy had divided themselves, after they left Kuykendall's Fort; the third Party went down within eight Miles of Winchester, where they took ten Prisoners, and killed several Persons; and, by one of the Prisoners, who made his Escape from them about Twenty Miles above this, and came in, we are informed, that they had taken one more Person, and killed another, from Patterson's Creek, on their Way out; and had with them Twenty-one Horses, all heavy loaded. A Party from the South Branch is after them."

In a Letter from Fort Bedford, about the same Date with the above, it is said, that the Indians were much quieter then than they had been for some Time before; and that it was thought they began to dread the Consequences of the horrid Cruelties they had been guilty of.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman, who went out with a Party of Volunteers from Lancaster County, for the Great Island, on the West Branch of Susquehannah, dated Sept. 1.

"Last Friday, at Five o'Clock in the Afternoon, we had this Happiness of meeting a large Party of the Great Island Warriors at Muncy Creek Hill, on their Way to the Frontiers of this Province. They had the first Fire on our Advance Party, which was forced back on our Front, and, pursuing, engaged us briskly for some Time; but as we disposed of the Party to much to their Disadvantage, after Half an Hour's hot Firing, they were obliged to run, with considerable Loss. I killed two myself, and saw several others fall, by the good Behaviour of our Men. John Clements, Alexander Scott, James Chambers, and James M'Lanachan, were killed in the Engagement, and four others wounded, whom we brought in with us. We hit the Killed, so that the Indians did not get one Scalp. We brought in four Scalps, and killed at least six more of the Enemy, but did not think it prudent to follow and scalp them, for fear of some of the Indians falling in with our wounded Men. We left several Horses."

In other Letters from Lancaster County it is said, That the Indians were seen dragging off several of their Dead and Wounded, but that it was thought not proper to follow them too far, being in the Enemy's Country: That the next Day our Party was attacked twice by the Indians, but beat off without any Loss: That some of our Men came to a Fire, where there were three Indians, whom they killed and scalped; they had some Indian Goods with them: That they brought in some Rifles, and other Plunder, and were in high Spirits, having beat 50 Indian Warriors, notwithstanding they had the first Fire at them: That if they met with proper Encouragement, they would immediately go out again against the Enemy, who, it was thought, might return to revenge their Loss, having at least ten or fifteen of their Men killed: And that the Preventing that Party coming down at that Time on the Frontiers, must have been a Service of the utmost Consequence to the Province; as thereby a great Deal of Blood, in all probability, was prevented from being shed, and some Hundreds of Families kept on their Places, which otherwise must have been drove off. It is said the Indians fought all naked, and were painted black. Our Party, we hear, consisted of 220 Men.

ANNAPOLIS, September 15.

Last Week in Baltimore Town, as two athletick young Men were trying their Strength and Skill in Wrestling, for a Dollar, they both fell together; but it prov'd a very dolorous and fatal Fall to one of them, Mr. James Sellers, for the Bone of one of his Arms split, and came quite thro' his Flesh and Cloaths: It was afterwards cut off near the Shoulder, but a Mortification ensued, and he Died soon after.

We hear from Frederick-Town, in Frederick County, that an Orphan Lad there, being out with a Gun a few Days ago after Pidgeons, it accidentally went off and kill'd him on the Spot.
